SAYS DRUG ACT DOES NOT ISOLATE FIENDS

Judge Swann Tells Defects in Law That Fails to Keep Prisoners Apart.

HABIT FORMED IN CELLS

Jurist Declares Presumption That They Are Innocent Is Dangerous One.

Judge Edward Swann, an authority on laws regarding habit forming drugs, said yesterday that, contrary to the general belief, the new amendment to the public health laws, known as the anti-narcotic drug act, does not provide that persons with a knife. arrested for its violation be confined "separate and apart from other prisoners while awaiting trial."

The new act does not even provide that prisoners shall be confined in that manner after conviction, Judge Swann says, except a certain class, of which, he predicts, in the whole United States there will not be "twelve such convictions in a
